

Want to be a demonstrator in our undergraduate classes?

Are you a good communicator with undergraduate students? Are you passionate about teaching? Are you on track or ahead of schedule with your HDR candidature? Would you like to earn a bit of money during the semester?

If you answer YES! YES! YES! and YES! to these questions, it may be possible to gain up to 8 hours/week of demonstrating work in some of our undergraduate courses.

Complete the Casual Teaching Registration form on the Agriculture Food and Wine webpage: <http://agwine.adelaide.edu.au/learning-teaching/>. This is forwarded to one of our - Education Specialists, Dr Beth Loveys (beth.loveys@adelaide.edu.au) Please included your expertise in any of the following areas on the registration form:

Farming

Systems Food &

Nutrition

Plant Breeding &

Genetics Plant Protection

Plant Physiology, Viticulture &

Horticulture Soil Science

Wine Science

Biometry

You should also list your teaching experience and provide contact details.

Dr Loveys manages the Casual Teaching Register of students who want demonstrating work, and she circulates this to academic staff in the School each semester. This will not guarantee you a position but if your services are required somebody will contact you to explore the possibilities.